This is useful when printing to a desktop printer instead of a multi-function device (MFD). With an MFD, you can use PaperCut to select an account and release the print job directly from the device.

When printing to the 8827-Follow-Me print queue, you can also use the PaperCut client to select the account to charge. However, this does not release the print job; you will still need to go to the MFD to release it.
